

Distributor Spotlight

With corporate headquarters in Rhode Island, as well as offices in New York and California, CME Corp is the only medical equipment distributor in the United States solely focused on medical equipment. Over the last 40 plus years, the company has built relationships with leading medical equipment manufacturers.

CME Corp has worked with Waterloo Healthcare since 2004, and knows the manufacturer provides a quality product, excellent service, and flexibility, while the staff is accommodating and passionate. These attributes allow CME to source quality medical equipment specific to healthcare facility services offered and the patient populations served. From medical equipment purchased from leading manufacturers to renovations and new facility construction, CME Corp is the partner for seamless capital medical equipment purchases, delivered on time and within budget.

Offerings like logistics, direct-to-site, and biomedical services to extend medical equipment lifespan distinguish CME Corp from other distributors. Help receiving, inspecting, assembling, scheduling, delivering, and installing medical equipment, as well as managing purchase orders, without impacting patient care, are all part of CME's unique logistics and direct-to-site services. Biomedical services have been at the heart of CME for over 35 years. CME holds several key government contracts available to DoD, VA, Indian Health, and other federal health facilities. With this expert experience CME is ready to support biomed teams to ensure equipment is installed, tested, calibrated, and ready for service.
